Identifying & Addressing Human Rights and Environmental Risks under LkSG and CSDDD

Friday, 19 April 2024 | 3:30 PM – 4:45 PM IST

A virtual exchange between the Indo-German Chamber of Commerce (IGCC) in collaboration with Cargodian GmbH and Baker McKenzie on effective identification and assessment of human rights and environmental risks in India.

As the German Supply Chain Due Diligence Act (LkSG) enters its second year of enforcement, German companies are looking toward effective risk management in their global supply chain. A key pillar of compliance lies in effective risk identification and assessment.

On the other hand, on 15th March 2024, the EU member states reached a consensus on the Corporate Sustainability Due Diligence Directive (CSDDD) that is poised to introduce a framework mandating companies to incorporate sustainable practices and due diligence processes into their operations and value chains.

Risk management is a cornerstone of proactive decision-making. However, accurately identifying and assessing risks presents a complex challenge across various industries. Understanding regional obstacles encountered in risk identification and assessment can be a difficult task for companies.

This webinar delves into how companies can develop a multi-pronged approach to identifying and assessing human rights and environmental risks and explores practical solutions to achieve supply chain due diligence compliance with confidence. The live session will look into how companies can develop effective stakeholder engagement strategies that look into:

- Differences and similarities of risk assessment requirements in LkSG and CSDDD,
- Addressing uncertainty and complexity of the supply chain,
- Navigating a desert of data scarcity and sources to choose the right data sources,
- Building a strong risk culture within an organisation,
- Leveraging technology-driven solutions.
